Read the story.

Now let us read the following passage.

Floppy, a little rabbit, lives in a burrow¹ near the river. Floppy likes to hop and play on the beach—Hippity Hop, Lippity Lop! Sturdy, the little turtle lives in the water. Sturdy likes to sleep on the beach.

One day, Sturdy comes out of the water and lies down on the sand. He tucks his head inside his shell and falls asleep. Soon Floppy comes to the beach—Hippity Hop! Lippity Lop! He hops up and down the beach and plays for a long time.

Floppy wants to rest for some time. He looks around and sees a big, round stone. He sits down on the stone. Sturdy the turtle wakes up. He pushes his head out of his shell and moves towards the water.

Thud! Floppy the rabbit falls off his stone. He looks at the stone. It is moving.

'Wow! A magic stone!' Floppy touches the stone. Sturdy lifts his head and Floppy jumps back. 'Oh! It is not a magic stone. It is a turtle!'
