A Thirsty Crow

It was a very hot day. A crow was very thirsty. He flew about in search of water.

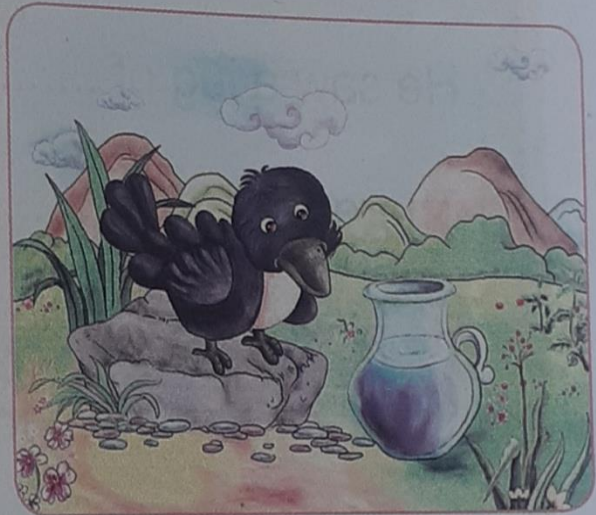

He reached a garden. He saw a jug of water.

But there was very little water in it. His beak could not reach it.

The crow was very wise. He saw some small stones near the jug. He picked up the stones one by one and dropped them into the jug.

The water rose up slowly and slowly. Now the crow's beak could reach it. He drank the water and flew away.
