Origin, Development, and Necessity of Society

A community is a group of people living or working together in the same area. People in communities might go to the same schools, shop in the same stores and do the same things. They also help each other and solve problems together. If it's a bigger community, the people in it might not always go to the same places, but they might like or believe in the same things.

What kind of communities are you in? Let us start with your family. They are a type of community because they usually live together and do a lot of the same things. Then there are your friends. They share your ideas and probably go to the same school. Your neighborhood is a community. Your town or city is a community in your state. Your state is a community that is part of the United States. What is the biggest community? Probably the universe. We are all part of it.

In a way, bees and ants are a community. They live and work together and solve problems by working together. Many animals live in their own kinds of communities.

Society is the term to describe human beings together (collective, the sum of their social networks and social interactions). The term comes from the Latin idea of societas, or the connection between friends or allies (friend or ally being socius). It can also mean a specific group of people who interact, as well as a wider society of which they are members. People form societies in order to gain greater benefits as a group than would be possible separately. Many animals beside humans also do this, such as wolves or eusocial insects. Sociology is the name for the study of society.

A society is often considered in terms of citizenship, rights, and ethics. The strength and unity of any society's members' willingness to help each other is to be measured can be called social capital.

Questions:

1. What is society? Why do you think living in society is important? Explain.
2. Write down any four points regarding the differences between the lives of ancient people and us (modern people).
3. A video link is mentioned here with the title 'Origins of the First Civilization' (Link: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=F1al55ojvTk>) which is a wonderful description about
